

The Rainmaker Institute and LA County Bar Sponsor the First Annual Small and Solo Law Firm Conference in California

LA County Bar Association and Nation's Largest Law Firm Marketing Provider, The Rainmaker Institute sponsor the very first state wide conference for small and solo law firms in California. The information packed, 2 day event will be held on June 26-27, 2008 at the LA Convention Center. Speakers include nationally recognized law firm marketing experts and highly successful attorneys.

Los Angeles, CA (PRWeb) May 15, 2008 -- Small and solo law firms in the State of California are taking note to the upcoming two-day law firm marketing conference on June 25 and 26 at the LA Convention Center. This first ever statewide conference is sponsored by the LA County Bar Association (LACBA) and the nation's largest law firm marketing provider, The Rainmaker Institute.

The two-day, information packed event focuses on best practices in law firm marketing and building a referral-based practice. Speakers have been hand-picked by conference organizers and include nationally recognized law firm marketing experts and highly successfully attorneys.

Stephen Fairley, CEO of The Rainmaker Institute and one of the conference organizers says, "Every single session will provide California attorneys with practical strategies for finding more clients and building a financially successful law practice. For less than the average law firm hourly rate, attorneys will learn solid solutions and strategies that will put their firm ahead during this economic downturn. This is definitely the one event attorneys cannot afford to miss."

Three of the featured speakers include attorneys John Bisnar, Bob Brennan, and Derrick Coleman.

John Bisnar is one of the featured speakers at the conference and will give a live interview titled "Secrets of a Multi-Millionaire Rainmaker." He will share specific steps and strategies he has used to build one of the most successful personal injury law firms in southern California.

Bob Brennan is a consumer attorney in Los Angeles and the California spokesperson for the National Association of Consumer Attorneys. His practice concentrates on identity theft and consumer fraud issues, such as lemon law. Bob will be sharing how lawyers can build a network of referral sources from their everyday contacts.

Derrick Coleman is a commercial litigation attorney who will teach small and solo practitioners how to transform their practices into profitable businesses by implementing marketing systems that work.

Early bird registrations for attorneys and their staff are available. Registrations before May 30th come with a $200 savings. LACBA member discounts are also available.
